Mortimer Halligan is a first-generation college student. They currently attend Indiana Wesleyan University (IWU). Mortimer applied to IWU knowing little about colleges. They chose IWU because Mortimer's church youth group staged an event on the IWU campus.

IWU has a comprehensive statement on human sexuality in its student handbook. The student handbook states:

- God's plan for marriage and sexual fulfillment can only be found within the context of marriage between one man and one woman.
- Students must refrain from inappropriate relationships outside of a marriage between a man and a woman.
- Sexual relationships between persons of the same sex are immoral and sinful.
- Students are able to overcome the temptation to engage in same-sex romantic relationships and practices.

The student handbook also encourages students who are struggling with issues of sexuality to write an email to an address that is "monitored by the executive director of the office of intercultural learning and engagement".

Mortimer is a member of a group of students who are attempting to start a queer/straight alliance at IWU. The school does not recognize their student group, so they cannot recruit or receive funds for their group. Additionally, their group must meet off-campus for security reasons.

The group constantly faces harassment from other IWU students and alumni. The harassment includes (1) an alumnus directly harassing students through social media, (2) students destroying resources posted by the group about a suicide hotline, and (3) students and alumni at IWU subjecting LGBTQ+ students to slurs and harassment. IWU refuses to confront this harassment, despite repeated complaints by LGBTQ+ students.

IWU also disciplines LGBTQ+ students for expressing their sexual and/or gender identities (e.g. coming out as queer, dating someone of the same-sex, wearing certain clothing, etc.).

Page 3 of 4 – U.S. Department of Education, Office for Civil Rights Discrimination

IWU's actions and failures to act make campus unsafe for IWU students who are part of the LGBTQ+ community.

Rachel feared discipline and dismissal by the administration, and mistreatment by peers if they were to express their orientation as a bisexual woman because Messiah's policies state that students with same-sex attraction are expected to refrain from expressing it and because Messiah's policies encourage students to report on other student's behavior. BYU-I withdrew its policy banning same-sex romantic behavior in February 2020, but reinstated it a few weeks later, when a commissioner from the LDS church sent out a letter stating that same-sex romantic behavior is "not compatible with the principles included in the honor code." Chandler could not express his sexual orientation and lived in fear of being expelled and removed from his university housing based on BYU-I's anti-LGBT policies. Azusa Pacific reinstated its ban on same-sex dating while Jonathan was a student. Jonathan and other students were fearful of punishment for having revealed their sexual orientation because the ban had been lifted. Jonathan worried that his scholarship would be revoked. Although Regent representative told Jamie before she enrolled that being a lesbian was not a problem for the school, after she became a student, Regent officials warned Jamie that she could be expelled for "premarital sex" because she is in a lesbian relationship or if she were to bring her girlfriend on campus. A professor harassed Jamie because of her sexual orientation and repeatedly condemned and insulted LGBT people in class. Regent did not respond to Jamie's complaints about the professor's behavior.

In February 2020 BYU removed its ban on "homosexual behavior." A few weeks later it reinstated the ban. Ashtin was fired from her job for cutting her hair in a style that was deemed too "extreme and distracting", and masculine, even though a man whose bleached hair violated the rules was hired at the same time. Ashtin constantly worried she would get thrown out of school for dating someone of the same gender.
